

Mental Argue

From the album International Daylight (2003)

You wake up out of your dreams,
Under a distant sun.
There was an argument,
Don't know which side you are on.

And now your brain will start to think.
Please give me reasons before I sink.

Something's bothering you,
It happened long ago.
People were aching your mind.
Why? You just don't know.

They were the ones who told you lies.
Shattering your beautiful disguise.

I'm inside you,
I decide what you are thinking.
Who is the loser now?
Does it matter while you're drinking?

It makes you strong inside,
you control what's in your mind.
The past is all behind,
you tell what's wrong or right.

Time needs different faces,
soon you will be one of them.
When travelling many places,
you will find out who they are.

Beware of wandering,
after all that you have been through.
It's up to you because,
this kind of illness never leaves you.

